Sindh is known to be a culture of vibrant colors and rich heritage. Among these specialties is the very famous “Ajrak”.

Ajrak dates back to Indus valley civilization and that makes it unique and vintage to be worn.

These Fabrics display special designs and patterns made using block printing by stamps. Common colors used while making these patterns may include but are not limited to blue, red, black, yellow and green.

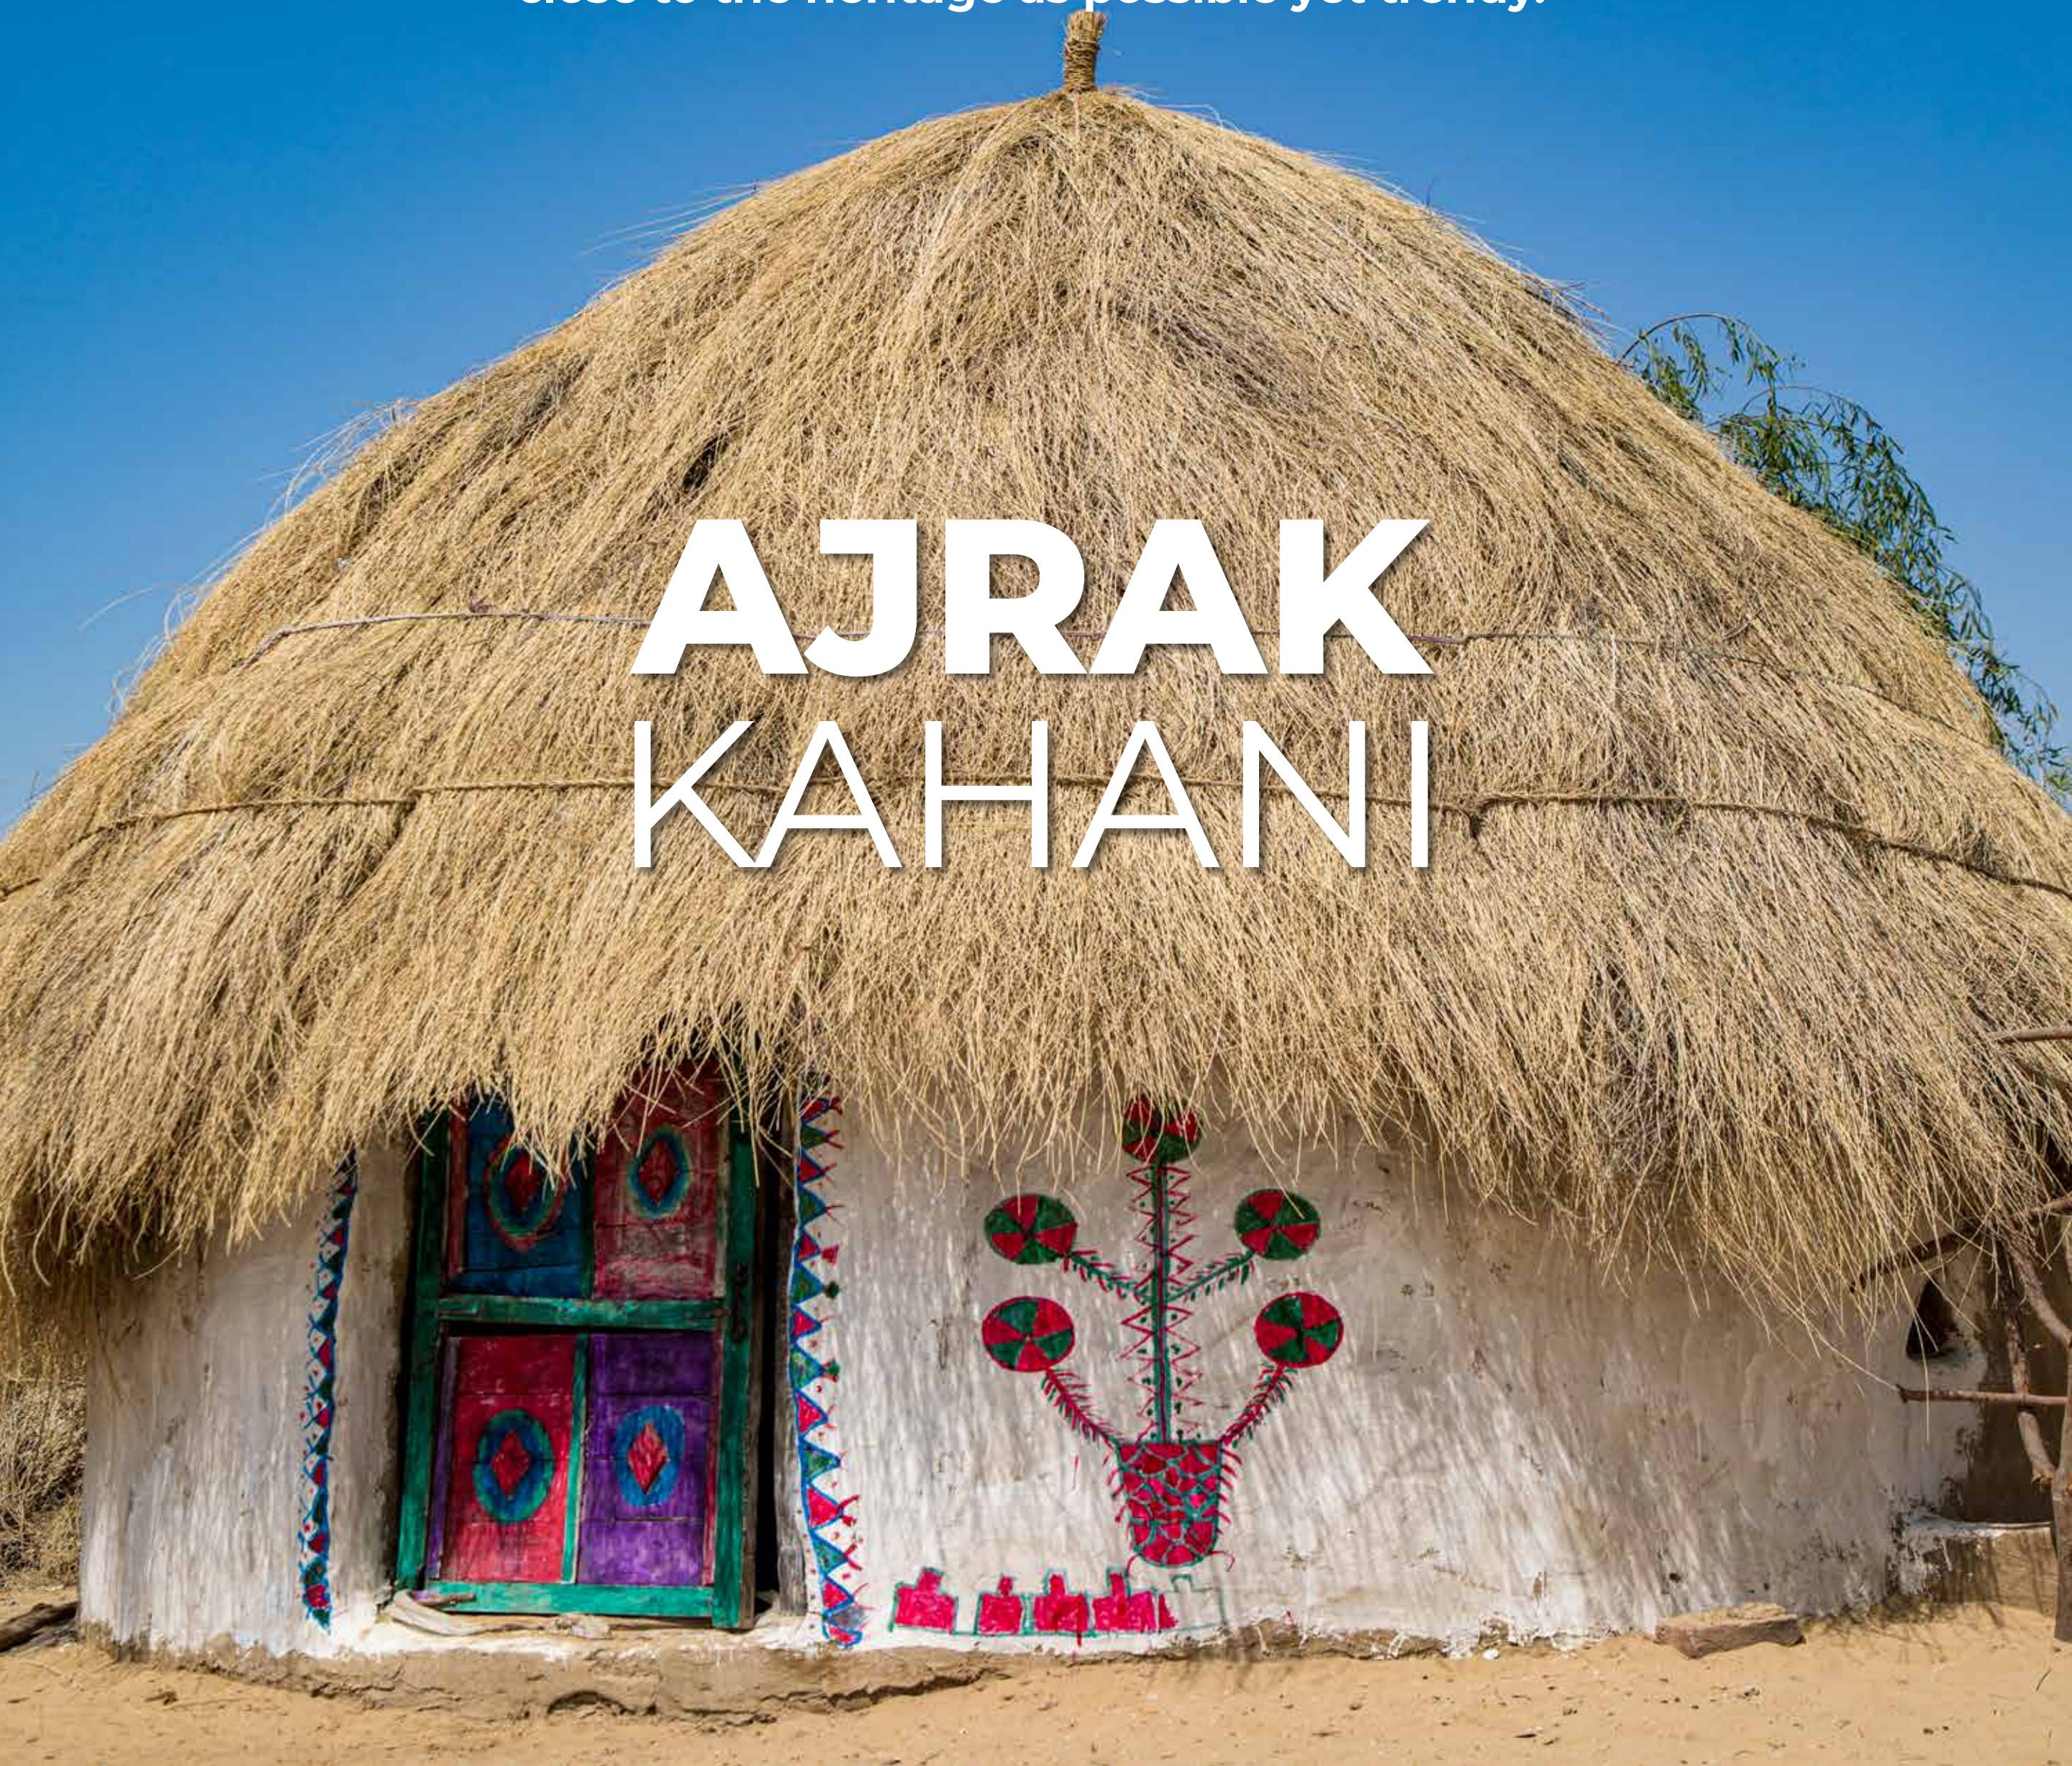

The process of its execution is a blend of time invested, team work and special skills.

People of not only Sindh but all over the world know that if ever “prints of Pakistan” are discussed “Ajrak is one of the art that defines the criteria.

In order to make sure the heritage reaches to masses and awareness can enlighten the younger generation Gulahmed would like to contribute a little.

Our team visited the interiors of Sindh to discover and understand the process “Ajrak” and then closely worked with the artisans to help us understand the making and execution of patterns so we can be as close to the heritage as possible yet trendy.
